

To liaise with the University to install more benches around campus

Summary

The University should add more benches to campus to make it more accessible and friendly.

Details

When you walk around campus there isn't an evenly distributed amount of benches. As Aberystwyth is a very hilly campus, it currently doesn't provide adequate resting areas for disabled/injured students. Another reason to include benches is that they are multi-purposeful and not limited to any one group to enjoy, it would be particularly useful for postgraduate students as they continue their study over the summer. It is an inexpensive solution for the University to make the campus more accessible and enjoyable. Submitted
